

JURY CONVICTED STAUNTON MAIL ROBBERS TODAY

GRAND JURY ASKED BY R. I. ACCUSED

Men Accused by Convicted Murderers Seek No Delay

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 15.—On request of the defendants the September grand jury was ordered re-called today by Judge W. T. Church in circuit court to consider the charge of murder made by Anthony W. Billburg and George Holsapple, under sentence to the penitentiary for 14 and 20 years for the killing of John Conner Looney, against John W. Potter, publisher of the Rock Island Argus; John M. Colligan, his managing editor; Jacob Ramser, jeweler, and Thomas Haegge, clothier, whose bonds of $10,000 were furnished by 12 of the leading business men of the city.

The order of continuance to next Monday of the preliminary hearing was dismissed at request of the defendants, who desire that the charge be immediately sifted by the grand jury and rumors involving them be set at rest for all time.

Young Looney was killed in a duel in the heart of the city between rival underworld gangs headed by John Looney and Anthony W. Billburg. Two previous grand juries have heard and ignored the evidence contained in the Billburg and Holsapple affidavits on which the four men have been arrested. All four emphatically deny the allegations in the affidavits and assert they have perfect alibis.

Child's Leg Broken in Accident Friday Evening

Nine-year-old Eleanor Jane Ketchin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ketchin of 604 North Jefferson avenue, sustained painful injuries in what is said to have been an unavoidable accident at the intersection of River street and Galena avenue last evening a few minutes after 7 o'clock. She with other little girl friends were the act of crossing River street onto the bridge, when the accident occurred.

The girl stepped out of the pathway of a west bound automobile directly in front of a slowly moving car going in the opposite direction, which was driven by K. H. Klassy, of the local division of state highways office force. She was knocked down but the car did not pass over her body. Both bones of the right ankle were broken and protruded through the flesh. She was hurried to the hospital where she was given the necessary medical attention and this morning was removed to her home.

Steck to Contest Vote Iowa Senator Contest

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 15.—Daniel F. Steck, democratic candidate for U. S. senate against Senator Smith W. Brookhart, today announced a contest for the seat would be made on the ground that sufficient votes were cast for him to overcome the senator's small majority, but apparently had not been counted.

HAS NOTHING TO SAY

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart had no comment to make when informed that his election was to be contested by Daniel F. Steck, democrat, other than to say that he had been informed that several thousand votes were not credited to him because election judges failed to count straight republican ballots in certain counties.

Escaped Patients from Colby Taken in Wauwong

Two young women patients at the Dixon state hospital, escaped from the institution about 4 o'clock this morning and walked north on the Illinois Central tracks to Wauwong, where they stopped in the Illinois Central depot to get warm. The local police were notified of the presence of the two strange women and employees from the institution went to Wauwong, taking them back to the institution.

Police Get Complaints of Punch Boards in City

Complaints have been received by the police of the operation of punch boards in the city at different places of business. Chief VanBibber started an investigation this morning and prosecution will probably follow should the complaints be verified.

Forced to Kill Pony Following an Accident

A Shetland pony belonging to Clarence Hoff of Nachusa avenue and Sixth street, was struck by an automobile belonging to Robert Thompson on Depot avenue and Sixth street about 11:30 last night, breaking one of the animal's legs. Officer Lenox was called to shoot the pony, which had strayed from a pasture.

BALANCE BOOKS BEFORE CUTTING TAX, SAYS PRES.

Coolidge Believes Any Action Should Be Well Advised.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—President Coolidge is convinced that the question of further tax reduction cannot be considered effectively by congress until all figures for the current fiscal year ending June 30 are available to show the actual amount of reduction possible. In consequence, pressure thus far brought upon the administration to have a special session of the new congress called immediately after March 4 has failed to alter his opinion that such action would be unnecessary and inadvisable unless unforeseen developments provide some other and very urgent reason.

It was made clear at the White House yesterday that the President is not to be understood as opposing the assembling of the new congress prior to its first regular session in December, 1925. If developments should make an extra session necessary, he expects adequate farm legislation to be enacted at the concluding session of the expiring congress and is of the opinion that further "tax reform" which he advocated in signing the revenue act of 1924 should be held up until a scientific basis is provided.

Heart Trouble Fatal to Injured Ottawa Woman

Mrs. Anna Hathaway of Ottawa, Ill., who sustained a fracture of the collar bone in an automobile accident near Nachusa Monday morning, died quite suddenly at the Dixon hospital this morning about 2 o'clock. The body was taken to her former home at Milledgeville. Acute heart trouble was given as the cause of her sudden death.

Mrs. Hathaway, her husband and sister were returning to their home at Ottawa Monday morning, after having spent several days visiting with relatives in Sterling and Milledgeville. A short distance west of the Nachusa corners, the Studebaker sedan in which they were driving, skidded on the wet paving and turned over in the ditch. She was the only occupant of the car sustaining major injuries and was taken to the Dixon hospital. She was apparently recovering nicely from the accident when she suffered a heart attack at the early hour this morning and died quite suddenly.

MANY RESERVING SEATS FOR FINE BANQUET MONDAY

Farmers' Evening in Dixon to Be Great Event of Year.

On the streets, in the stores, and office buildings and throughout this part of the country there is one remark that you hear all the time, "Are you going to the Farmer's Banquet next Monday night?" Everyone is talking about the Farmer's Banquet and from all the return cards Dixon is going to have a wonderful time acting hosts to the farmers of this vicinity. Men act like boys as they laugh and talk to each other about this coming event. Even the children are asking their daddies if they are going to attend the farmers' banquet and invariably reply exactly the same, "Yes, I would not miss it!" and the farmers who do not attend are going to miss something that they will regret for years to come as Dixon is preparing for an evening that they can never forget.

Many Reservations In.

All day yesterday calls were coming into the Chamber of Commerce office asking that reservations be made. Calls that were many miles from Dixon showing the keen interest that has been aroused over the farmers' banquet, was not only making together on an occasion of this kind when there is that fine friendly feeling, that spirit of "good fellowship" that prevails. Every call that has come to the Chamber of Commerce for reservations has been promptly taken care of and all the calls up to tonight will be taken care of in the same courteous, friendly manner. If a farmer has sent in his reservation but for some unknown reason, his ticket fails to arrive he should come direct to the Chamber of Commerce office Monday and a duplicate will be given him and he will be promptly taken care of in all respects.

Police to Help Visitors

The city commissioners have assured the city in charge of the farmers' banquet that all of the police department of the city will be on hand to assist and guide all their farmer friends and to see that they find parking spaces and help them in many other ways. The city commissioners and the committee respectfully request that citizens of Dixon do not park cars in the main business section of Dixon on Monday afternoon or evening so that the entire space can be used for the many guests that will be in Dixon. Nothing is being left undone, for the commissioners and Chief of Police Van Bibber are co-operating in every way to make the banquet a success.

Farmers will be welcome to come to Dixon as early as they care to and all will be welcome to rest or loaf in the various offices and business establishments of the city. The trustees of the Elks Club have extended a cordial invitation to all the farmer guests to use the Elks Club for a loafing place until the hour of the banquet. Open house by the Elks to the farmers on Monday afternoon. Every lodge, church, and organization is co-operating and are planning on having one big joyful good time.

The banquet will be served in the various places that have already been given in the Dixon Evening Telegraph and will start promptly at 6:45 and if any man has dull cares and worries he will surely forget them with the many surprises that the committee has in store for him. After the banquet all will go to the Dixon Theater for the rest of the evening's entertainment which will consist of the program that has been arranged by Mr. Rorer and the address by Douglas Malloch of Chicago who is known as "the poet who made life worth while."

Bankers of District in Meeting Here Yesterday

A very important special business meeting of the chairman of different committees of the northern Illinois group of bankers, including Lee, Cole, Winnebago, DeKalb, Stephenson and Carroll counties, about 50 in number, gathered here yesterday afternoon and met in the circuit court room at the court house. Wayne Hammer of LaSalle, president, and G. W. Boyden of Sheffield, vice president of the Illinois Bankers' Association were present and made talks. A very interesting discussion of banking affairs followed.

Iowa Students Through Dixon En Route to Game

Between fifty and a hundred automobiles conveying University of Iowa students, passed through Dixon yesterday afternoon and evening on their way to Madison for the Iowa-Wisconsin football game this afternoon. Several of the parties stopped in Dixon over night resuming their trip this morning.

Senate Committee Will Probe Prohibition Also

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 15.—The special senate committee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau is expected to begin an inquiry into the prohibition act as well as administration of the tax law when the hearings are resumed, Nov. 12.

LAST CHANCE TO JOIN MUSIC SOC. DURING EVENING

Applications Can Be Made at C. C. Office This Evening.

Today is the last chance to join the Civic Music Association and get in on the Civic Concerts to be held this winter. A committee will be at the headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce all evening to receive memberships and they have announced that those who have not joined may telephone their names in if not convenient to call in person.

A meeting of the talent committee will be held this evening at the Chamber of Commerce to talk over the attractions for the coming season. The talent committee consists of Mrs. W. H. Copple, chairman, Mrs. A. F. Moore, Mrs. Fred Dimick, W. D. Hart, Ray Miller, Miss Garra Rogers and Mrs. F. J. Rosbrook.

A meeting was held of the Lady Forrester's last evening at the Perennial school to work-out a plan or assisting in the membership drive. There were about twenty ladies present and all agreed to help in the work today.

It was announced at a meeting last evening that every teacher in the E. C. Smith school had joined the association and all but two had joined in the high school. Reports of this kind coming into headquarters have proved of great encouragement to the committees who are working so hard for civic concerts in Dixon.

All precinct workers who have not already turned in their signed cards to their chairman are urged to bring their cards to the Chamber of Commerce so there will be no mistake about there being counted in before tonight.

United China is Desire of Head of South China

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Aboard Steamship Shingyo, Approaching Shanghai, Nov. 15.—(By The Associated Press)—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, military head of the government of South China, en route from Canton to Tientsin where he has been invited to sit at a conference which has for its object the unification of war-torn China, today discussed his aims with a correspondent of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Dr. Sun declared he was in favor of the appointment of a national committee to bring about a strong united government. Further than this, he said, China's independence was in the hands of her people. Dr. Sun was accompanied by a large staff of military men and economic experts.

Canton, Dr. Sun said, was recovering from the disorders which resulted from clashes between soldiers and merchants there last month. He said his provincial allied forces at Canton were faithful and that order was being restored.

Evolution Believers in West Organize Society

By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Nov. 15.—At a mass meeting which overflowed the main auditorium of Native Sons Hall, a campaign was formally launched here last night under the auspices of the recently organized Science League of America, to combat efforts of opponents of the theory of evolution to prevent instruction on that subject from being given in public schools and colleges.

Among the speakers at the meeting were Luther Burbank, the "plant wizard," Dr. David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Stanford University, Dr. Wm. E. Ritter, noted biologist, C. S. Mundell, formerly a Congregationalist minister and Maynard Shipley, president of the league. The meeting was presided over by John D. Barry, a newspaper man.

Italian Officials Deny Alarming Condition There

Rome, Nov. 15.—(By The Associated Press)—Official circles here denied today what was characterized as the alarmist news regarding the situation in Italy published in some news papers abroad. Although admittedly there is a certain amount of tension in the political atmosphere just now, no special precautions of any sort or kind are required, have been taken or are foreseen, it was declared.

Galena Div. Agents in Meeting Here Yesterday

About 30 station agents and officials of the Chicago & Northwestern railway, Galena division, met at the Elks club yesterday in a business session of the good-faith service commission. This is a department of the railroad service of which all agents are members and a general discussion relative to the betterment of service to the public featured the assemblage.

Start Investigation of Wreck Fatal for Four

By Associated Press Leased Wire
St. Augustine, Fla., Nov. 15.—An immediate investigation was begun today by officials of the Florida East Coast Railroad in the wreck which last night took four lives and injured 18 others. All the injured were expected to recover.

Mrs. Harding, Very Near End in Night, Held Her Own Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Marion, O., Nov. 15.—Mrs. W. G. Harding was holding her own this morning, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer said in a bulletin which he issued from her bedside at 5:15 a. m., after a critical night during which she was near death.

Dr. Sawyer's bulletin follows: "Mrs. Harding slept very little last night but is holding her own this morning. Heart attack less in severity. Her condition is just about the same as yesterday."

SIXTY GUNMEN IN CHICAGO ARRESTED BY CITY'S POLICE

First Fruits of City Crusade Following O'Banion Funeral.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 15.—Police raids last night and today in response to Mayor Dever's demand to rid the city of gunmen yielded 64 arrests of alleged gangsters, many of those taken carrying revolvers.

Only a few of the known underworld characters were caught in the raids.

The mayor's order followed the assassination of Dion O'Banion, florist and leader of gangsters whose funeral yesterday was probably the greatest public display of wealth and power the underworld of Chicago ever gave.

Police heads still complained today of lack of co-operation on the part of the courts in explanation of why gunmen have flourished here.

Collins complained yesterday of what some of his men called "rubber stamp" judges ready to issue writs of habeas corpus if the police arrested any one without placing a charge against the mat once.

Stop Sale of Firearms.

As a matter of public protection, in view of increased crime throughout the country and especially in Chicago, Julius Rosenberg, chairman of the board of a big mail order house, announced today that the mail order house had discontinued the sale of all forms of fire arms.

For many years newspapers and police officials have advocated discontinuance of the sale of firearms and as far back as 1916 his company had begun to limit such sales. Mr. Rosenberg said, and in cataloguing such weapons for sale, published a notice that "intending purchasers shall furnish us with evidence that they are legally entitled to the possession of such fire arms." The company had then sought to limit such sales to police, military officers and members of police and military organizations and others such as bank and express messengers.

"Our action in limiting the sale of fire arms to officers of the law and finally discontinuing the sale of them all together," said Mr. Rosenberg's announcement today, "is based on our desire to protect our good name and maintain the public good will. We believe the moral side of all questions is the right side, not only because we want to be right, but because it is good business."

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 15.—The courts were blamed by Chief Collins and Michael Higgins, detective chief, for lack of cooperation in efforts to disarm and exile gunmen in accordance with the order of Mayor Dever made after the saying Monday in his flower shop, a Dion O'Banion, florist, gunman and hijacker.

"Rubber stamp" magistrates, the police heads said, with handy writs of habeas corpus and a readiness to accept easy bail from gunmen defeated police efforts. Their statements came after Mayor Dever had directed the police to "make life miserable for known gangsters."

First steps in the announced campaign of Mayor Dever to end "the rule of the gun" in Chicago were taken yesterday at the pretensions funeral of O'Banion when squads of detectives mingled with the thousands who attended and unobtrusively felt hip pockets and breast pockets for concealed weapons. None were found among those who paid tribute to the dead gangster were those around whom numerous beer running feuds and gang factions scandals have frequently centered.

Guns Passed At Grave

At Mount Carmel cemetery outside the city limits, after the slain leader's body was lowered into its grave this morning, a priest, a priest, spectators saw pistols being passed from those who had waited to some of those who had accompanied the cortege. Their last respects paid to their leader, his followers resumed the ordinary course of the activities. Thousands lined the course of the funeral procession which skirted the business district in its course from the undertakers chapel to the cemetery.

RECORD CROWD IS EXPECTED SUNDAY FOR CLINTON GAME

Visitors Expect Passes to Give Them Victory Here.

Prospects today were favorable to a record-breaking crowd at the Dixon-Clinton Legion football game Sunday afternoon, which will be called promptly at 2:30. This is the last game of the season to be called at this hour, it having been decided to start the remaining contests at 2 o'clock. The Dixon Legion band will be on hand, accompanying the team to the field and favoring with a short concert preceding the game and between halves.

Clinton is coming to Dixon satisfied that they will be able to win by resorting to the aerial game, according to the following from the Advertiser of that city:

"Murphy to Belding, Eversman to Morrison, Eversman to Belding, Murphy to Eversman, Murphy to Morrison, Eversman to Belding, Eversman to Wallace, Burlingame to Wallace, Burlingame to Belding, Murphy to Wallace, Burlingame to Eversman, Burlingame to Morrison." Those are the phrases which are expected to be important in the play by play report of Sunday's battle at Dixon, Ill., between the Clinton and Dixon American Legion football teams.

Clinton fans are putting great faith in these combinations and expect the Legion aerial attack to prove the deciding factor in the annual clash. Managers Peterson, Knight, Myers and Burlingame have been working the team hard this week in order to have them in the proverbial "pink of condition" for the Dixon clash and have been giving special attention to the building up of a strong pass attack.

In previous Dixon-Clinton battles offensive work has been confined to line smashing with an occasional end run or pass. In the previous game this year both teams concentrated on line play and as a result the battle ended with a 3-3 tie score.

Eversman Struggles Team

The recent addition of George Eversman, star Purdue halfback, who is especially adept as a receiver of passes and makes a wonderful running mate for Belding, who is rated as one of the greatest pass receivers in the country.

Eversman in addition to being a clever receiver is a first class passer and when necessary can work on the sending end. Morrison and Wallace at ends are both capable pass receivers and with these four men as constant threats Clinton is expected to make life miserable for the Dixonites.

Belding and Eversman are both "triple threat" men and Dixon will have a job in knowing just how to play these boys. Either can kick, smash the line, run the ends, toss passes or receive them and by mixing up the plays no doubt will be ground gainers.

Versatile Attack

Most of Clinton's passing will be done by the quarterback, either Nips Murphy or Muggs Burlingame. Murphy has been passing well of late while Burlingame in the Kalona game got the pigskin away for numerous long passes.

The pass game with Clinton's wonderful line and a quartet of backs who can smash and tear around the ends gives Clinton a versatile attack which should enable them to defeat the Dixonites. With Eversman, Belding, Murphy and Burlingame in the backfield Clinton has a combination which is better than any they have ever had in a Dixon game, while Basil Knight and Larry Williams will be in reserve ready to shoot in at any time without weakening the combination.

Postpone Celebration of Completion of No. Road

Committees from the Dixon and Freeport Chambers of Commerce and business men's organization in Freeport, Haldane, Forrester and other villages, along route 26, Dixon to Freeport, have agreed to postpone the date of the celebration marking the opening of the new paved state road. It was originally planned to hold the celebration on Monday of next week but when it became known that the highway would not be open for traffic until the last of the week, the date was set ahead for Nov. 26. Complete plans for the celebration will be announced later by a special committee which has the matter in charge.

Annual Poultry Show to be Held Here Dec. 8-12

The annual poultry show under the auspices of the Lee County Poultry Assn. will be held in Rosbrook's hall in this city December 8 to 12. It was announced by officers of the association this morning. The premium list is now being prepared and it is expected the entries will be more numerous than ever before.

Brother of Dixon Man Passed Away Thursday

John Docter, brother of Mathew Docter of this city, passed away at his home in Forreston on Thursday night. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock from the Lutheran church at Forreston.

URNS SATCHEL AGAINST GOVT. IN ARGUMENTS

Atty. Holds It Proof Fall and Doheny Were Honest.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 15.—The "little black satchel" of the senate oil investigation still loomed prominently on the stage of the government's Elk Hills lease cancellation suit as arguments were resumed in federal court today, but it was playing a dual role.

Because it once contained $100,000 in currency loaned by E. L. Doheny to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, the little satchel became a symbol of the government's allegation that the leases and contract it now seeks to cancel were obtained from Fall for Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company by conspiracy and fraud.

But yesterday Frank J. Hogan, opening arguments for the defense, dragged the much discussed satchel into court as a battering ram to demolish the government's case.

Picturing the 30 years of friendship that preceded Doheny's loan to Fall, the hardships they endured together as prospectors, the natural sympathy which the more prosperous of the two must have felt for his less fortunate friend, Hogan declared that the $100,000 loan was "a personal transaction impelled by impulses as fine as any that ever actuated human action."

"Does a bribed official give or send to the briber a promissory note in return for the bribe?" he asked. "Or if the note given Doheny by Fall was an evidence of guilt, is there any reason why Doheny should have preserved it, when a match from a penny box could have obliterated for all time any evidence of a bribe?"

Hogan was expected to conclude his argument today.

RELAXATION ON WALL ST. FAILS TO STOP TRADES

Several Stocks Reached New High Mark During Short Day.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Nov. 15.—Further relaxation in trading took place in today's stock market with price movements disclosing considerable irregularity. A sensational jump of 13 1/2 points on Fisher Body revived speculative interest in the motor shares. The Maxwell and Jordan issues mounting to new 1924 high levels. Marked strength also was displayed by a number of the foods and public utilities. Persistent profit taking took place, however, in some of the recent industrial favorites such as American Can, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and American Tobacco Issues. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe broke 5 points to 137. Rails were quiet. Brisk buying of General Asphalt just before the close lifted it two points to a new high for the year. The close was irregular.

Stocks moved irregularly higher at the opening of today's market despite a large volume of week end profit taking. Simmons Company, American International Corporation and Jordan Motors advanced fractionally to new high levels for the year. American Water Works advanced 1 1/2 points and International Harvester 1 1/2, the latter touching a new top. U. S. Steel, American Can and Baldwin opened unchanged.

The main trend continued upward throughout the early dealings as Washington for target practice despite the continued effort of William B. Shearer of New York, through the courts, to prevent Secretary W.D. Hays from disposing of the vessel under the arms conference agreement in this manner unless congress has an opportunity to act on the question.

Election of Officers at Kiwanis Meet Tues. Noon

At the regular meeting of the Dixon Kiwanis club at the Guild rooms of St. Luke's church next Tuesday noon officers for the ensuing year will be elected. The program committee has provided a special entertainment for this meeting and all members are urged to be present.

ALL GUILTY, JURORS HELD THIS MORNING

Attempted Alibis Were Not Proven to Jury's Satisfaction

BULLETIN
By Associated Press Leased Wire

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 15.—William (Dinty) Colbeck, who with eight others was found guilty in federal court at Quincy of participation in the $54,000 Staunton mail robbery, has been regarded by local police as leader of the "Egan gang" since the death, October 31, 1921, of Constable William Egan who was shot in front of his saloon by three men whose identity the police never disclosed.

Colbeck succeeded Egan as democratic committeeman of the fifth ward. The fact that his ward won by the republicans in the last election was attributed by politicians to the fact that Colbeck was in jail at the time.

Colbeck and nine others were tried in federal court here two weeks ago on a charge of implication in a $260,000 mail truck holdup here, April 2, 1923. The case resulted in disagreement of the jury after three days deliberations. Most of those convicted at Quincy today were charged with the mail truck holdup.

As in the Quincy trial, Ray Renard testified here against Colbeck and his co-defendants.

Colbeck is known here for his generosity for his friends. He conducts a roadhouse at Maxwell, St. Louis County.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Quincy, Ill., Nov. 15.—The jury in the United States District Court here at 10 o'clock this morning returned a verdict finding all of the defendants guilty in the Staunton mail robbery case. Gus Dittmyer was found guilty on two counts of the indictment, those of aiding and abetting the crime and concealing stolen goods, all the other defendants were found guilty on all four counts.

At Sea On Alibis

After being out twelve hours, Judge Fitzhugh sent the jury to bed at midnight last night to begin their deliberations again this morning, no verdict having been reached. When the jury had been out five hours the court sent for them and asked if there were any questions bothering them. He was told that the jury appeared to be unable how to weigh the evidence given in some of the alibis offered by several of the defendants. The instruction given them in the morning was repeated, which was in effect that an "alibi is a legitimate defense. It is most easily proved and hardest to disprove. If the evidence is good, the alibi is a clear and conclusive vindication. But evidence tending to prove an alibi should be scanned with the greatest care and caution."

Later he sent for the jury again and asked if there were any further questions, and was asked if it was the jury's duty to find all of the defendants guilty. A verdict. They were informed by the court that they could find some of the defendants guilty and some innocent, and agree to refuse to pass on some of them. In the later case such as there had been disagreement on, would have to stand trial a second time.

To Investigate Police

Attorney Thomas Rowe, who represented Charles "Red" Lanham and who had the St. Louis police officers summoned to testify in behalf of his client and the general defense, told a group of lawyers engaged in the case, when shown THE ASSOCIATED PRESS dispatch stating these officers would be subject of an inquiry, that he would gladly defend them before any trial board free of charge.

The defendants were confined in one of the rooms in the federal building during the day awaiting verdict of the jury. When the jury went to bed, they were taken to the county jail, where they spent the night.

Many Students Accompany Team to Rock Falls Today

A large crowd of high school students went to Rock Falls this afternoon to witness the annual contest between the foot ball teams from this city and Rock Falls. The latter team now leads the Rock River conference of high schools and according to advance announcements, are confident of an easy victory over Dixon today which will place them in a position to claim the championship. Rock Falls has a strong team and has not been defeated this season.

North Siders, Take Notice.

Water will be shut off on the entire north side on Monday, Nov. 17, from 7 a. m. to 12.

SHE FEARS FOR THE HOME.

The kitchenet apartment is destroying family life and interests, Marie G. Merrill warns the Playground and Recreation Association.

Discussing the old-fashioned home, she says: "Mother was not too busy to occasionally make candy or popcorn, and father and mother were not above playing games which the children could enjoy.

"Nowadays a large percentage of our children live in a place which has not much space between its four walls. They come in at evening time. Mother kills a couple of cans and they have dinner. A door is opened and a bed drops down. Father and mother go out for recreation and the children hunt theirs."

Alas! this is a true picture—but not in as many homes as is often feared. It is temptingly easy to observe a few homes that are such in name only, and to jump to the conclusion that these are typical.

Invention, modern industry, high rents, changed customs, the passing of alleys and large yards as playgrounds—all these, indeed, have changed home life.

But the average home, for instance, does not live out of a tin can any more than former generations lived out of glass jars. All cannot afford fresh fruit or vegetables "out of season" and brought from afar. The tin can is a blessing. It is progress.

As regards the folding bed: If anyone prefers the old-time mattress of corn husks and bedsprings of rope, to the modern mattress and steel-coil springs, welcome to it!

And we believe that Willie, building a radio while pa and ma go to a movie, is quite as well off as the old-time youngster who played tiddledeewinks or parcheesi with pa and ma. And these still are plenty of homes where mothers make candy and pop corn.

The modern home in the big cities has, undoubtedly, lost much. In particular, its outdoor surroundings—large open spaces where youth can frolic and romp in abandon and get plenty of fresh air. The only substitute for these, as long as parents are not wise enough to raise their families in or near the country, is the park or public playground.
We cannot have too many of them. Speed the work.

EDUCATION WEEK.

The program for National Education Week, Nov. 17-23, has been announced. Special days are to be observed as follows: Monday, Constitution Day; Tuesday, Patriotism Day; Wednesday, School and Teachers Day;
Thursday, Illiteracy Day; Friday, Physical Education Day; Saturday, Community Day, and Sunday, For God and Country Day.

The purpose of such a week, of course, is to promote better education in this country through discussion of educational problems and methods, the present status of education in the public schools and similar matters.
Needless to say, propaganda for any purpose save sounder and more widespread education is hardly justifiable in such a week.

The public wants to be informed as to what the schools are doing to develop character, impart useful knowledge, stimulate independent thinking and bring out latent ability.
Teachers want to know what their duty is in their public service, whether to stuff young heads with predigested wisdom or to help opening young minds to find and use wisdom for themselves. Parents want to know where they stand in relation to the schools and to the education of their children. They need particularly to be reminded that they can't unload the whole burden of education and character development upon the teachers.

Education week, properly and wisely used,

can be of great service to the nation, if everybody takes hold of it in the spirit of real seeking for truth and real desire for helpfulness.
It should be more than a seven-day day orgy of speech-making.

COAL.

The soft coal industry continues quiet. A lot of coal men accept the situation fatalistic-ally and blame it on poor business conditions generally. When factories aren't running, they're not burning coal. On the other hand, the railroads use a large part of the coal output, and they have recently been hauling more freight than ever before.

One thing that has made the coal business quiet is the great number of businesses and buildings that have turned to crude oil for fuel. More will, many of them.

$1000.

The land values of our country increase $1000 every time an immigrant arrives from abroad, said a campaigner for the Commonwealth Land party. That was his "lowest estimate."

Farm land is made valuable by the soil tiller's toil.

City land usually is made valuable largely by the toil of others than the owner—by the multitudes who flock on the site or nearby.
And eventually all man-created wealth is absorbed by the land, which alone endures throughout the centuries, increasingly valuable.

PAYING U. S.

It is difficult to keep up with the times.
Many still say: "Uncle Sam will never get back that money he lent to Europe during the war."

As a matter of fact, foreign government have already paid back 300 million dollars of principal and 850 million dollars in the form of interest, according to the New York Trust Co.

LIQUOR.

One steamship brings 178 packages of khisky and other liquors for French, British, Spanish and Argentine embassies in Washington. A very busy season apparently lies ahead for the diplomats. With supplies like this, they should be able to settle anything.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Now that the election is over maybe the papers will dig us up a good murder to read about.

Money is different from other things. The less money you have the harder it is to keep.

When woman's place isn't in the home everything else is out of place also.

Thanksgiving is coming. Let us all be thankful we are not postal clerks watching Christmas getting so near.

And we can be thankful shoes are not like auto tires so we would have to sit down when we got a hole in them.

Let us be thankful all the girls chewing gum are not chewing tobacco.

Closed autos are the most popular in winter, while closed mouths are popular the year around.

The man who insists on being the life of

Let us be thankful all clock stockings don't run.

If we got everything we wanted the world wouldn't be big enough to keep it all on.

The 1925 model autos are pretty and fast, but we can't say about the 1925 model girls.

It gets dark so early now night schools can hold two sessions.

Friday isn't as unlucky as Saturday, which is payday when your wife gets all your money.

Have any of these women who wanted equal rights started supporting their husbands yet?

Do your Christmas thinking early and avoid the rush.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Clive Roberts Barton

JACK'S HOUSE COMES HOME

Sure enough! Mother Goose on her broom and Daddy Gander on his dust-pan were riding through the air as fast as magic could bring them.

"Here they come! Here they come!" cried Nick as he looked out of the window of the House-That-Jack-Built.

Sure enough! Mother Goose on her broom and Daddy Gander on his dust-pan were riding through the air as fast as magic could bring them.
They landed right in front of Jack's house, and the Twins and Mister Pim Pim, the brownie man, rushed out to meet them.

"Well, here we are," croaked the white crow, hopping off the handle of Mother Goose's broom. "And now that everybody is safe and sound, I'll be flying back to my nest on the mountain. I am greatly in need of sleep. Good-bye, everybody."

And flapping his wings, he cried,
"Caw! Caw!" and flew off.

"And now that everybody is safe and your friends are found, I'll be going, too," said Mister Pim Pim.
"They are looking for me in Brown-island. Good-bye."

And he shrunk up until he disappeared altogether, before the Twins had time to thank him for helping them out of their troubles.

"Now we shall go back to Mother Goose Land," declared Daddy Gander.
So he spread his magic dust-pan on the grass and said a charm.

Instantly the House-That-Jack-Built slid over and rested on the dust-pan (which stretched itself out to the proper size) as though it had been there always.

"I'll go on my broom," said Mother Goose. "I'm not comfortable any other way."

Daddy Gander said some magically words and away went the House-

That-Jack-Built, Twins and all, back to Pippin Hill where it belonged.

Mrs. John was on Mrs. Spratt's back porch talking.

"Well, I don't see anything else for it," she was saying. "Jack will just have to go out and gather more before winter comes. But it's too bad about the other one disappearing the way it did. After he had worked so hard 'n everything!"

Suddenly Mrs. Spratt gave a shriek. "Why there it is now," she cried. "It's coming on Daddy Gan-der's dust-pan."

Mrs. John couldn't believe her eyes. "I'll have to touch it before I'll believe it's true," she declared.

"Jack! Jill! Come quick, everybody!
Come and see what's happened!"

Jack Spratt rushed out, and the Old Shoe Woman rushed out and all her children, too. And Poppleton Bun rushed out puffing like everything. And the Crooked Man and Humpty Dumpty and everybody in Mother Goose Land rushed out to see the strange sight.

The House-That-Jack-Built came nearer and nearer and finally settled down on the exact spot it had left so many hours before.

Mrs. John rushed in first.

"My bread sponge is gone!" was the first thing she said.

Isn't that just like a woman! But she remembered her manners later, and she and Jack and Jill thanked Daddy Gander and the Twins for all they had done.

"We are sure you are quite welcome," said Nancy and Nick happily.
"We've had a fine time."

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Our puzzle author escaped from his padded cell with only a pencil and a foolish look.

He wrote a puzzle on the first thing he saw—which happened to be a real estate sign. He left the letters on the sign, utilizing them in his own words to save erasing them.

Can you tell what the sign said after you have solved the puzzle?
After all is said and done, you will be 10 horizontal with this 8 horizontal puzzle, despite the fact that you will not solve it with 6 vertical.

HORIZONTAL

- Processions.
- Not ordinary.
- A sugar formed by the action of malt on starch.
- Satisfied.

VERTICAL

- Coward.
- Mechanism used in lifting water.
- Pertaining to anus.
- Govern.
- Dusta.
- Comfort.
- Conveyance made to glide rapidly over snow and ice.

Dreams

each has its own MEANING

Long before prohibition became the law of the land, dreams scientifically recorded, destined serious consequences for those who imbibed too freely.
To see yourself intoxicated should warn you that you are facing business consequences in love and business affairs. To be jovial over a cup of wine may mean that you will soon be with jovial friends, but that mistakes of a serious character are likely to follow.

Interpretations

To drop and break a comb means that you will lose the admiration of many of your friends.

To be gazing out across a field where cows are peacefully grazing denotes contentment of mind.

You will soon be in new surroundings if you see yourself carrying a bucket while walking.

FABLES ON HEALTH

Digestion

"Did you ever run across Ben Franklin's health hints?" the family doctor once asked Mr. Mann.

Of course Mr. Mann hadn't any more than had most of the people of Anytown. But the famed American had some pretty wise counsel to offer and here are a few that might be good for anyone's note book:

"They that study much ought not to eat so much as those that work hard, their digestion being not so good."

"Excess in all things whatever, as well as in meat and drink, is to be avoided."

"Eat and drink such an exact quantity as the constitution of the body allows of."

"Wouldst thou enjoy a long life, a healthy body and a vigorous mind, and be acquainted also with the wondrous works of God, then labor in the first place of bring thy appetite into subjection of reason."

"If thou eatest so much as to make three unfit for business, thou exceed-est the due measure. If thou art dull and heavy after meat that is a sign thou exceeded thy due measure, for meat and drink should refresh the body and not make it dull and press it."

A new invention is a music stand which will turn over the sheets when a foot lever is pressed.

This community was saddened Saturday morning when the word was passed from one to another that our friend and neighbor Mrs. Krehl, had passed to the great beyond. Mrs. Krehl was one of the oldest pioneers of this community having lived in this vicinity for over 60 years.

Anna Christine Proger was born September 1, 1844 at Oberhonne, Hesse, Germany, and died November 8, 1924, at Franklin Grove, Ill., following a prolonged illness of several months. She had attained the advanced age of 80 years, 2 months and 8 days.

In May, 1864, at the age of 19 years she came to this country, locating in this vicinity where she has resided for 61 years. December 5, 1868 she was united in marriage to Carl Krehl of Franklin Grove, Ill. To this union five children were born, two of whom died in infancy. Those who survive are: Three daughters—Mrs. William Reimer of Zumbrota, Minn.; Mrs. Charles Randolph of Silverwood, Indiana; and Miss Lucy at home; four grandchildren, Ray, Ethel and Helen Reimer of Zumbrota, Minn.; and J. C. Krehl of Clinton, Iowa; five great-grandchildren, Lucille, Ray and Donald Reimer, Garnet and Donald Kinyoun. Maude Krehl Kinyoun, a granddaughter, preceded her in death. Her husband, Carl Krehl, died April 8, 1902, and a step-son August Krehl died March 25, 1920.

At the age of 14 she was confirmed in the Lutheran faith, but was a faithful attendant at the Presbyterian church of this place.

Rev. Thomas London Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, had charge of the funeral services which were held at the home Tuesday afternoon. His remarks were very comforting and comforting referring several times to good qualities and neighborly kindness of Mrs. Krehl, who was a good mother, kind and thoughtful of her children.

Interment was in the Franklin Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were L. A. Trottnow, William Lott, Joel Senger, J. H. Lincoln, William Phillips and Charles Schafer.

We do not die, we cannot die. We only change our state of life. When earthly temples fall and lie Unmoving 'mid the worldly strife.

There is no death in God's wide world. But one eternal scene of change; The flag of life is never furled. It taketh only wider range.

And when the spirit leaves the frame. It's home in which it long hath dwelt.

Miss (to the waiter) Take this steak away; it's a mistake.—London Mail.

The relatives from a distance to attend the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reimer and daughter, Miss Helen from Zumbrota, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Randolph of Silverwood, Ind.; Miss Ethel Reimer of Minneapolis, Minn.; Roy Reimer of Rochester, Minn.; Mrs. Rose Krehl, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Krehl, Clinton, Iowa; Mrs. Minnie Krehl, Aurora; Mrs. Martha Krehl Amboy; Henry Krehl, Greencastle, Ind.; Mrs. Chas. MacDonald, Chicago; Mrs. M. Hathaway, Rochelle, Ill. The friends from a distance were, Mrs. George Unger and Mrs. George Walters, Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laker, W. C. Durkes, Mrs. B. McKinney, Mrs. Margaret, Stephen, Mrs. George Kreitzer of Dixon; John Hammer, Miss Clara Hammer, Mrs. Martin Reynolds, Charles Johnson, Lloyd Johnson, and Mrs. A. Jacobson of Morrison, Ill.; Mrs. Kelley of Clinton, Iowa; Purkett Albright and Mrs. John Ventur of Ashton, Ill.

The floral offering gave evidence of the very high esteem in which Mrs. Krehl was held by her relatives neighbors and friends.

NECESSITY FOR FARM RELIEF IS OVER SAYS SENATOR

Will Not Press Passage His Bill at Next Congress.

Washington, July 14.—The McNary farm relief bill will not be pressed for enactment at the next session of congress, Senator McNary, republican of Oregon, co-author of the measure said today, upon his return to Washington.

Senator McNary said he still believed in the bill as a fundamental principle of legislation, but felt that in emergency it was designed to meet had passed. Conditions of distress among farmers had been largely relieved, he said, except for the cat raisers who could not be assisted. The bill, he predicted that if the present increased price of wheat, corn or hogs is maintained for the next year or two, the farmers will extricate themselves from any further difficulty.

The Oregon Senator declared could not agree with those who believe the farmer's salvation lies in co-operative marketing. Co-operative marketing, he declared, can be successful only when it applies special products, such as the prairie growers and fancy fruit growers where the producers can control a command a market.

The COLONIAL Grate saves your fuel

Unlike ordinary grates, the COLONIAL grate actually saves fuel. The COLONIAL owner fires scientifically. He doesn't pay good money for fuel and then have it run through his grates like sand through a sieve. There is no unburned fuel in his ashes.

GREEN COLONIAL FURNACE

Perhaps more people have bought a COLONIAL on account of the advantage offered in its grate than for any other single reason.

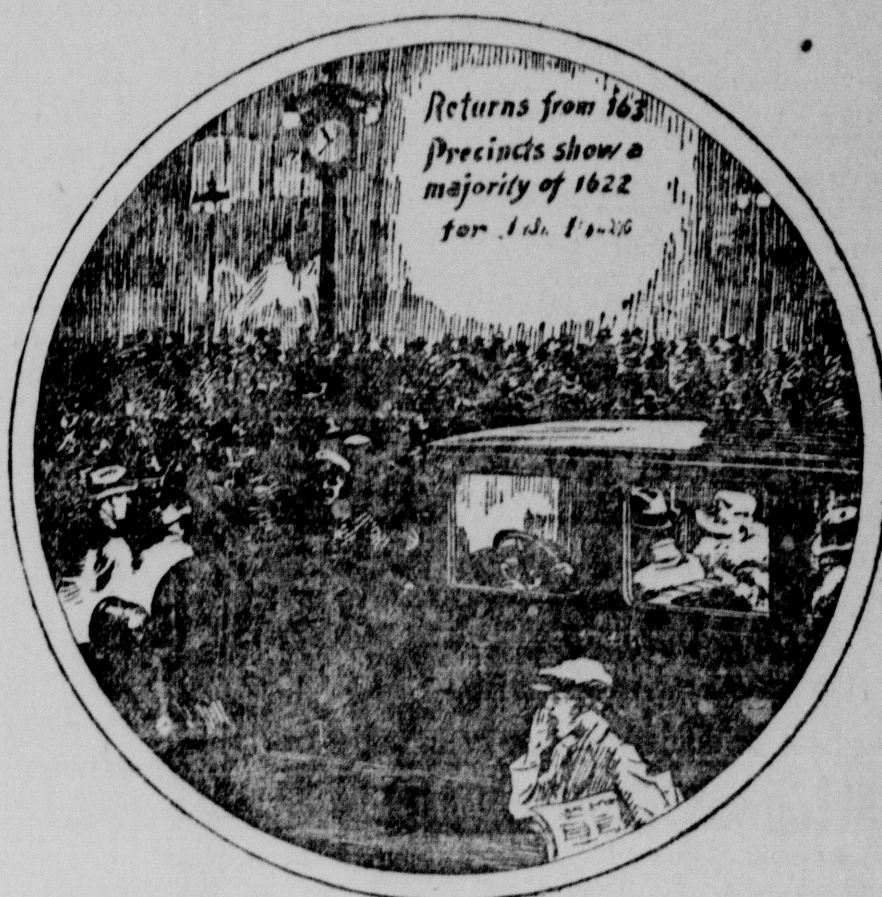

The whole secret of the COLONIAL grate design is that each of the four bars is operated separately. You remove ashes and clinkers from any part without disturbing the live coal. This, as you will recognize, is another COLONIAL distinct departure from ordinary furnace design—and another improvement.

Its cleanliness is another important advantage. Notice how the bars extend through the door frame. No dust or ashes can escape while shaking the grate. There are many other COLONIAL features we would like to show you.

LETTER FROM RUTH BURKE TO

Leslie, I was too amazed at this turn of events to speak, but the girl knew I was interested.

"Harry was always good to me, Mrs. Burke," she continued. "He kept me in school in Geneva from the time my mother died when I was three years old until last year when I was graduated. He came a few days after that looking ill and unhappy and took me away."

"We went over to the Italian lakes but it was not the right climate for Harry's heart. He grew more and more unhappy as he found that he was steadily growing weaker and gave me a letter for you. It was then he told me that you were the kindest and tenderest and most loyal woman in the world. It was then he told me you had been his wife."

"Zoe, he said, 'I am not going to be with you long. I have very little money left. I was in hope I would be well soon to earn some more. However, I think there is enough to keep you until you get something to do.'"

"You can do something to earn your living," he asked pathetically.

"I had no idea, Mrs. Burke, of what I could do. I had not been trained for anything except to do those little things that a girl must do for herself but I answered 'yes' very decidedly that I could be a governess."

"Well, dear, if I were you I would go back to Paris and get a place as governess in some American family as soon as I am dead."

"At this I burst into tears and he, trying to comfort me, said, 'Don't cry. Honest, I'm ready to go. I've made an awful mess of it and I'm tired. I'm sure you will be more successful without me than with me. You speak French and Italian and surely your education is of the best.'"

"He was silent for a while. It was a great effort for him to breathe. Then he handed me this letter saying, 'If you get into any trouble try and see the dear woman to whom it is addressed. Don't attempt to mail it. The letter will keep years if necessary. Time will only have left the best of me among Ruth's memories.'"

You may never have to deliver it, but if necessary take it and Ruth will advise you and help you."

The girl handed me the letter. I didn't read it then and the girl proceeded to tell me the rest of her story.

"Harry died that night. As soon as possible I went to Paris and very soon got a position in the family of Leonard Stores as nursery governess for their only child, a tiny girl of three."

"From the first I could see that Mr. and Mrs. Stores were very unhappy. Their only bond was Stella, whom they both loved almost to idolatry."

"At first I saw very little of Mr. Stores but after a time he formed the habit of coming into the nursery and watching his little daughter for an hour or two every morning."

"He seldom played with her but Stella adored him and was continually asking him questions and was always trying to bring him into our work or play. He, however, paid no attention to me whatever."

"Zoe, he said, 'I am not going to be with you long. I have very little money left. I was in hope I would be well soon to earn some more. However, I think there is enough to keep you until you get something to do.'"

Tricks of FAKE MEDIUMS

BY HOWARD THURSTON
America's Master Magician

The materialization of a full-grown spirit during a "cabinet seance" is one of the most convincing of all fraudulent phenomena, and has an awe-inspiring effect upon the "glitters."

From a mere patch of light hovering about the floor, a beautiful, luminous form gradually materializes, finally developing into a spirit personage who walks and talks.

The "spirit" is a living person—a confederate of the medium. She wears a filmy costume coated with luminous paint. This is covered with a black cloak which the confederate removes a little at a time, until finally she discloses it altogether and appears as a full grown "spirit." The "dematerialization" is accomplished by resuming the cloak.

Paraffin molds that bear the shapes of human hands and faces are often produced at seances by fraudulent mediums. The molds are hollow and are presumably the forms of "spirit" hands. Recently forms have been made of closed hands, with the fingers clenched. These, it has been claimed, cannot be produced by human means, as a hand could not be withdrawn without injury to the mold.

Further, if Heredia, who has been active in exposing fraudulent mediums, has shown on the platform how easily this feat may be accomplished. A rubber glove is filled with water; its fingers are bent, and the mold is formed about it. Then the water is poured out, and the glove may be withdrawn without breaking the mold.

LABOR FARED WELL IN BIG VOTE, NOV. 4

Gompers Pleased with Result of Election,
He Says.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 14—Labor fared "almost phenomenally well" in the general election, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today in a public statement, commenting upon the results of the November 4th balloting.

"In the face of the tremendous Coolidge landslide, there were elected to the new house of representatives more members having labor's endorsement than are to be found in the present house," Mr. Gompers asserted.

"The new congress is not likely to pass any measure greatly detrimental to the interests of the workers and our people generally," the statement continued.

The election comment was combined with an outline of the 44th annual convention of the federation beginning Monday.

"The delegates," he said, "will do their best to act wisely for the good of the workers and for the common good of our republic."

"While I have no desire to discuss specific questions in advance of the action of the convention, there is one important fact to which I may

CAPTAIN BLOOD

By RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.
"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitaphone picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

Blood would have slipped out of Port Royal again that same night. But that hound Bishop had passed the word, and the fort kept a sharp lookout. In the end, though it took a fortnight, Blood bubbled him. He sent me and most of the men off in a frigate that I bought for the voyage. His game—as he'd secretly told me—was to follow and give chase. Whether that's the game he played or not I can't tell yet; but here he is before me as I'd expected he would be.

Having delivered himself of his decoction of fact and falsehood, and thereby added one more to the exploits of Peter Blood, he enquired where the Captain might be found. Being informed that he kept his ship, Wolverstone stepped into a boat and went aboard, to report himself, as he put it.

In the great cabin of the Arabella he found Peter Blood alone and very far gone in drink—a condition in which no man ever before remembered to have seen him. As Wolverstone came in, the Captain raised bloodshot eyes to consider him. A moment they sharpened in their gaze as he brought his visitor into focus. Then he laughed, a loose, idiotic laugh, that yet somehow was half a sneer.

"Lord, Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant growled.

"My God, Peter, what's this?"

"Rum," said Peter. "Rum, from Jamaica."

"I'm asking you what ails you?" he bawled.

"Rum," said Captain Blood, again, and smiled. "Just rum. I answer all your questions. Why don't you answer mine? Whatcher gonawid' me?"

"I've done it," said Wolverstone. "Thank God, ye had the sense to hold your tongue till I came. Are ye sober enough to understand me?"

"Drunk or sober, allus 'derstand you."

"Then listen." And out came the tale that Wolverstone had told. The Captain straddled himself to grasp it.

"It'll be as well asertruth," said he, when Wolverstone had finished. "Ye're muddin'." Wolverstone growled "We'll talk again tomorrow."

They did; but to little purpose, either that day or on any day thereafter while the rains—which set in that night—endured. Soon the shrewd Wolverstone discovered that rum was not what ailed Blood. There was a canker eating at his heart, and the Old Wolf knew enough to make a shrewd guess of its nature. He cursed all things that degenerated, and, knowing his world, waited for the sickness to pass.

But it did not pass. When Blood was not doing or drinking in the taverns of Tortuga, keeping company that in his saner days he had loathed, he was shut up in his cabin aboard the Arabella, alone and uncommunicative. His friends at Government House, bewildered at this change in him, sought to reclaim him. Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, particularly distressed, sent him almost daily invitations, to few of which he responded.

Sometimes Blood asked himself why he had come back to Tortuga at all. He was degenerating visibly, under the eyes of all. He allowed a black beard to grow on cheeks that had ever been so carefully shaven; and the long, thick black hair, once so sedulously curled, hung now in a lank, untidy mane. Wolverstone, the only one who held the clue to this degeneration, ventured once to beard him frankly about it.

"Lord, Peter! Is there never to be no end to this?" the giant growled. "Will you spend your days moping and swilling 'cause a white-faced nunny in Port Royal 'll have none of ye? 'Sblood and 'Ounds! If ye want the wench, why the plague does not ye go and fetch her?"

"If there's no other expedition 'll tempt you, why not Port Royal? There's enough plunder in the town to tempt the lads, and there's the wench for you. Shall I sound them out?"

Blood was on his feet, his eyes blazing, his livid face distorted. "Ye'll leave my cabin this minute, so ye will, or, by heaven, it's your corpse'll be carried out of it. Ye mangy bound, d'ye dare come to me with such proposals?"

But, at last, as his buccaneers were growing desperate, something happened, brought about by the captain's friend, M. d'Ogeron. One sunny morning the governor of Tortuga came aboard the Arabella, accompanied by a chubby little gentleman, amiable of countenance, amiable and self-sufficient of manner.

"My captain," M. d'Ogeron delivered himself, "I bring you M. de Cussy, the Governor of French Hispaniola, who desires a word with you."

"You have a good force here under your command, my captain," said M. de Cussy. "Some eight hundred men. I understand they grow restive."

"I am speaking officially, my captain. There is war between France and Spain in Europe. It is the intention of France that this war shall be carried into the New World. A fleet is coming out from Brest under the command of M. le Baron de Rivalor for that purpose. I have letters from him desiring me to equip a supplementary squadron and raise a body of not less than a thousand men to reinforce him on his arrival. What I have come to propose to you, my captain, at the suggestion of our good friend, M. d'Ogeron, is, in brief, that you enroll your ships and your force under M. de Rivalor's flag."

"You are offering to take us into the French service?" he asked. "On what terms, monsieur?"

"With the rank of Capitaine de Vaisseau for yourself and suitable ranks for the officers serving under you. You will enjoy the pay of that rank, and you will be entitled, together with your men, to one-tenth share in all prizes taken."

"I will consult my officers," said Blood. They came and the matter was laid before them by M. de Cussy himself. Yberville, the young French filibuster, had the honor to point out to M. de Cussy that the share offered was too small. For one-fifth of the prizes, the officers would answer for their men; not for less. This M. de Cussy finally conceded, and the articles were drawn up and signed that very day. The buccaneers were to be at Petit Goave by the end of January, when M. de Rivalor had announced that he might be expected.

CHAPTER XXIII

M. DE RIVAROL

Captain Blood was in a disgruntled mood when he sailed from Tortuga, and still in that mood when he came to his moorings in the bay of Petit Goave. In that same mood he greeted M. le Baron de Rivalor when this nobleman with his feet of five men-of-war at last dropped anchor alongside the buccaneer ships.

Summoned to wait on him, Captain Blood repaired to the Castle of Petit Goave, where the interview was to take place. The baron, a tall, hawk-faced man of forty, very cold and distant of manner, measured Captain Blood with an eye of obvious disapproval. Of Harthorpe, Yberville and Wolverstone, who stood ranged behind their captain, he took no heed whatever. M. de Cussy offered Captain Blood a chair.

"A moment, M. de Cussy. I do not think M. le Baron has observed that I am not alone. Let me present to you, sir, my companions: Captain Harthorpe of the Elizabeth, Captain Wolverstone of the Atropos and Captain Yberville of the Lachesis."

The baron stared hard and haughtily at Captain Blood. His manner implied plainly that he despised them, and that he desired them at once to understand it. It had a curious effect upon Captain Blood. It awoke the devil in him, and it awoke, at the same time, his self-respect, which of late had been slumbering. A sudden shame of his disordered, unkempt appearance made him perhaps the more defiant. He waved his captains to the chairs that stood about.

"Draw up to the table, lads. We are keeping the baron waiting." They obeyed him. Wolverstone with a grin that was full of understanding. Haughtier grew the stare of M. de Rivalor. He did the only thing remaining to mark a distinction between himself and them. He put on his hat.

"Ye're very wise now," said Blood amiably. "I feel the draught myself." And he covered himself with his plumed castor. "Shall we come to business?"

GOPHERS HOPED TO PULL SELVES TOGETHER TODAY

Minnesota Fans Looked for Team to Redeem Its Poor Record.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15.—(By The Associated Press.)—The humble University of Minnesota Gophers and the haughty Illinois team, gridiron rivals for more than a score of years, were to add another page of their thrills to the colorful history of the football relations between these two eleven when they clashed at Memorial Stadium here today.

The fans were assured of a full quota of exciting moments. With the Gophers fired with a fierce determination to redeem themselves from a season's dismal record by pulling themselves together and played up to their potentialities, a reputation of the spectacular Chicago-Illinois tie battle of last week was in prospect.

On the other hand, the Illinois men were expected to live up to advance notices and with Harold "Red" Grange dishing up the thrills to satisfy fandom's thirst for the spectacular, the Gophers apparently were in for another drubbing.

Shively, a 210 pounder, was due to play left guard in the Illinois lineup, in place of Slimmers, with Berliam replacing Miller at right guard and McIlwain still bearing the scars of a fractured hand, as the running mate and chief defender of the dazzling Grange.

What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity

The picture which appears here of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N.Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr. Pierce practiced medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known builder for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective in diseases of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow if you take this Alternative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N.Y., and receive confidential medical advice without charge. All druggists sell Discovery, tablets or liquid. Send for trial package.

The setting of the religious movement which culminated in the migration to America, and the conditions which prevailed prior to this migration, will be treated by Rev. Hutchinson in his Sunday evening address.

At the close of this program a tableau entitled: "Rock of Ages," will be put on by the choir and Miss Lucinda Preston, in which, the new Dissolving Stereograph will be used for the lighting effects.

Sunday November 23rd will be observed as Thanksgiving Sunday. The Thanksgiving sermon at the morning hour, 11:00, and at the evening hour, 7:30, the theme of the previous Sunday will be concluded: "Why we have Thanksgiving, The Pilgrims in America."

The choir will sing: "Jesus Savior Pilot Me," illustrated with the stereograph.

The new stereograph which will be used in the evening service next Sunday is the last word in picture projection. It throws a beautifully clear picture 8 feet in size at 40 feet from the screen. The dissolving feature for changing pictures is unique. It is equipped to operate either on 220 or 110 volt systems. Rev. Hutchinson cordially invites all community friends to see this beautiful machine and its work in the next two Sunday evening programs.

EASTERN LUMP EGG NUT

MORE HEAT —Less Ash —Less Coal

Do you buy Coal with care, or do you say to your dealer: "Send me a load of Coal"? Do you stop to think what the essentials of a good Coal should be? Let us tell you about EASTERN COAL. FIRST, it saves you money by giving you an adequate return in heat for the price paid. SECOND, Eastern Coal is used in furnace, steam plant or kitchen range with equal satisfaction, which makes it a Coal of universal use. It fires easily, burns evenly, light ash, no clinkers, high heat value, consumes its own smoke and gas when drafts are properly adjusted.

Eastern Coal runs uniform in size and quality which makes it a really good Coal.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZABETH SMICE

(Contributed)
Mrs. Elizabeth Smice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers, was born in Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 31, 1841, and died at Pine Creek Nov. 10, 1924, aged 83 years, 9 months and 9 days. She was married to Nathan Smice, who preceded her in death seven years ago. To the union were born eight children, five of whom survive her: Mrs. Frank Coy of Chana, Fred Smice of Mount Morris, Mrs. Garfield Long of Pine Creek, Frank Smice of Grand Detour and Mrs. Henry Reed of Oregon. Thirty grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren also survive. She had two brothers and three half-brothers, three of whom are still living. She united with the Church of the Brethren about 18 years ago and remained faithful to her faith until her death. Funeral services were held at the Pine Creek Church of the Brethren Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 12, Rev. C. W. Stauffer officiating, and with burial in the cemetery near the church.

The Coal Man

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

WHEN the chilly days are mellow, he's a mighty welcome fellow, is the man who brings the coal we need so bad. When quite empty is our furnace he's the one who'll quickly turn us from the fretty thoughts to really feelin' glad.

Yea, the role he plays is stellar and his place is just our cellar. We applaud him long whenever he comes in. And his lines are never draggin' while he's perched upon the wagon that contains the coal he'll shovel in our bin.

As he travels on the byways, on the boulevards and highways folks will stop and gaze with envy on his wares. Soon his wagon will be empty, tons of coal look mighty tempty and it's natural they are wishin' it was there.

Mister Coal Man's due much credit for he cheers us up. You said it! He's the fellow who delivers us our heat. When the winter winds are humming we feel safe 'cause warmth is coming as we see his wagon headin' down the street.

Firesides

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

IN the chilly nights were turning to the open fireplace burning, and we find a heap of comfort there. As the wooden ash were sifting we will find our minds a-dwelling to the bubbles we've erected in the air.

Monster logs in dullness blaze make our thoughts a trifle busy. We imagine things quite mystic, so it seems. Little sparks that spit and flicker always carry us much quicker than most anything into the land of dreams.

Through the flames in different places we can pick familiar faces as they're formed in spurts of yellow, blue and red. Then a sparklet dies and the flaming picture changes. Every scene that's born is quite as quickly dead.

Cozy fireside how we love you now we drink the heat above you. And it seems that with the mystic touch you're best. There is comfort in your embers and your worshiper remembers that you're calling when he's needing of a rest.

SHAKESPEARE

This figure, that thou here seest put, it was for gentle Shakespeare cut; Wherein the Graver had a strife With Nature to outdo the life: Oh, could he but have drawn his wit As well in brass, as he hath hit His face; the Print would then surpass All that was ever writ in brass. But since he cannot, Reader, look Not at his picture, but his book.

—Ben Jonson.

WHITHER

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going a-milking, sir," she said.
"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"
"You're kindly welcome, sir," she said.
"What is your father, my pretty maid?"
"My father's a farmer, sir," she said.
"What is your fortune, my pretty maid?"
"My face is my fortune, sir," she said.
"Then I can't marry you, my pretty maid."
"Nobody asked you, sir," she said.

THE deepest parts of Africa
Home the pretty Water Buck.
It lives in streams and bunters' shots
Will quickly make it duck.
Its fur is like a Red Deer and Its height is bout four feet.
To watch it battle hipsters with Its horns is quite a treat.

THE Leopard hails from Africa,
And parts of Asia, too.
Its color makes this animal
A handsome thing to view.
The fur is full of black spots on
A yellow shade that's pale.
It measures close to eight feet long
From head to tip of tail.

THE Northern, or the Arctic Fox
Is sly as he can be.
Around the Arctic Ocean you will Find him running free.
His fur is white in winter and
In summer brownish gray.
He'll fight most any hunter who Disturbs him at his play.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion.

Watch Your Hat!

Fashion has been humorously likened to flirtation; its attraction dwells in a constant change of subject. Man, though he will not admit it, tires of clothes even more quickly than woman. Perhaps that is because he owns fewer of them, for the fascination of dress lies in variety. Starting at the head, take hats. How many men cling to an heirloom of a hat as though it were a precious possession, instead of a tattered remnant of a felt which would have worthily crowned an ash can long ago? Why do men purchase hats according to the season, not according to their need? Why does a man think that just because he has only one head, he should have only one hat? Why is a man seemingly unaware that a shabby hat spoils the effect of a spic-and-span suit or overcoat? And, the echo answers "Why?"

Three hats—two soft felts and one derby—are the least The Well-Dressed Man should own, quite apart from caps, sport hats and other styles for a particular purpose or a formal occasion. Watch your hat! Exposure to sun, wind and wet subjects it to more rough-and-tumble use than any article of dress, except shoes. The moment your hat begins to look shabby or faded, off with it and on with a new one! Nothing so much as a hat that looks worn and withered detracts from one's, otherwise, smart appearance, and often, unconsciously. Again—watch your hat!

The soft felt hat, with a full crown and a rather flat-set brim, as illustrated in the accompanying sketch, is one of the late Autumn styles. It comes in the familiar tints of gray, blue-gray and tan, as well as in the new pale green, a shade sometimes called jade. This hat is worn with only the lengthwise center groove and with no dents at the sides. Such a shape, which is patterned after the English fashion, gives the head a rounder, broader look than is obtained by creasing and is better adapted to harmonize with muffers and overcoats.

Extreme blocks in hats for late Autumn and Winter wear are very large. Indeed, the trend of style is markedly toward wide brims and higher crowns to dovetail with the broad-shouldered coats and full-draped trousers now at the height of their vogue. The polka-dotted silk muffer shown adds a crisp and colorful touch to one's turnout.

The Affair at Flower Acres

© 1924 by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Douglas Raynor is found shot through the heart in the early evening on the floor of the sun room of Flower Acres, his Long Island home. Standing over the dead man pistol in hand, is Malcolm Finley, former sweetheart of Raynor's wife, Nancy Eva Turner. Raynor's nurse, stands by the light switch. Then Nancy's brother, Orville Kent, Ebra Goddard, friend of Finley, Miss Mattie, Raynor's sister, and others, enter the room. Long Raynor, son of Douglas Raynor by first marriage, comes to claim his father's estate, but is forced to reveal that his claim is false. Pennington Wise, a celebrated detective, and Zizi, his girl assistant, are called to take the case out of the hands of Detective Dobbins. Dobbins and Zizi are discussing the case. Dobbins is assuming that he suspects Nancy most strongly of the killing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Well, no, miss. You see, Miss Raynor, now, she was on the stairs behind where Miss Turner was—"

"But that was after the shot. Miss Mattie didn't leave her room until she heard the report, then she started—then Mr. Finley started from the east veranda, then Mrs. Raynor started from the west terrace—all these people started because of hearing that shot. Now, I say it could have been fired by Miss Turner, she could have hurried back into the house, and standing in that north door between the house and the sun room, she could have turned on the lights—just as we know she did do—after she had killed her man."

"Well, well, now, come, you do make it sound plausible—but, no, if she had murdered Raynor, Miss Turner would never have come back here. She would have disappeared entirely—yes, sir, so she would."

"It does seem likely," admitted Zizi, "but I wanted to show you that there was a possibility of her being the criminal."

"Oh, Lord, there's a possibility of any of those people who stood at those various doors."

"And each one so agitated, so shocked, that no clear account can be got from any of them."

"That's so. There's Miss Turner now—want to talk to her?"

Zizi did, and Dobbins called the nurse to them.

She was tactful but willing to answer questions. She admitted her attempt to poison Mr. Raynor, but said she didn't mean to kill him, only to make him ill and then promise to restore him to health if he would give her a large sum of money. This he had done, and the bonds she had received from him were, she said, compensation for her past ill at his hands.

She had no fears for herself, for though she had poisoned Mr. Raynor, his wife was in no position to call her to account—nor was his son, who had stolen the will. Miss Raynor was not a person who would take definite steps and Miss Turner felt sure the law would not harm her even in the event of an accusation.

"But, look here," Zizi said, "if Mrs. Raynor's tablets that she gave to her husband secretly were harmless, what were they?"

"Atropine—to counteract the effect of the morphine he was taking."

"Well, why wasn't the morphine discovered at the autopsy?"

"Because the atropine and the morphine so counteracted each other that all traces of both disappeared. And you put the arsenic."

"And you put the arsenic that you had left in a vase in Mrs. Raynor's room to incriminate her?" Zizi's black eyes glared at the tranquil nurse.

"Not for that. I hid them there to get them out of my possession, and I thought they'd never be discovered."

"You like Mrs. Raynor?" Zizi asked.

"Yes, I do."

"I thought you were sure it was Mrs. Raynor who shot—"

"I've told you again and again I don't know which one it was! I've thought it over and over—I've pictured out the scene with both of them, and all I can say is—it was certainly one of them."

"What about a man from outside?"

"That man from outside is all very well, if you can find him."

Zizi had caught sight of Pennington Wise walking down the path and she ran after him.

"Where are you going?" she asked as she caught up with him.

"Down to the Falls," he replied, patting her thin little hand as she pushed it through his bent arm.

"It's true," Wise said, "any jury would exonerate Nancy Raynor if she had shot her husband—but I want to prove that she didn't."

"And that Mr. Finley did?"

asked this quite casually. "I don't know," Eva returned slowly. "When I first came here I hated her. She was Raynor's wife—she had everything that he had long ago promised to me. You can imagine what a jilted girl feels toward her successful rival. I came prepared to hate her—but I meant no wrong to her. I came here to get satisfaction of one sort or another out of Douglas Raynor. I wanted to make him suffer as much as he had made me suffer. I wanted money, but I also wanted to make him suffer mentally and physically. Both, I gave him the arsenic, in sufficient doses to scare him and to make him ill—but I didn't mean to kill him. I proposed to stop short of that. Well, then, when Mr. Finley came, I found I could hurt him by suggesting that Mrs. Raynor still cared for Mr. Finley.

"All in all I made Douglas Raynor pretty miserable and I'm glad of it. He vented his anger on his wife—but I couldn't help that. If she did shoot him—it was no more than could be expected of a woman who had borne all she could bear. No one but myself knows what awful misery that man heaped on her head. If Nancy Raynor is accused—if she is tried, I will go on the stand and testify to cruelty she received, to ignominy and scorn that was heaped on her, and to brutality unspeakable that she endured, until no jury in the world would give any verdict but full and entire acquittal. Yet even with all that, even though I pity her from my heart, I can't say I like her. We are not congenial, she doesn't like me—but my sense of justice will make me witness for her, if it ever comes to that."

"Good for you, Miss Turner," Zizi cried. "Now, will you please sense of justice go so far as to answer a few questions?"

"Certainly."

"Then, knowing Mrs. Raynor fairly well, as you must, do you think she is a woman who would take her husband's life—no matter what he had done to make her miserable?"

"No, I do not. But—"

"You're going to say we can't vouch for a desperate woman. But I want your honest opinion. Aside from the facts of seeing Mrs. Raynor fleeing out of the sun parlor that night, aside from any thought of evidence—you would be surprised to learn that Mrs. Raynor was a criminal?"

"Very much surprised. She is of the martyr type. She suffered in silence."

"She gives me that impression," Zizi said.

"Nancy Raynor is a woman who loves very few people. She adored her father, she worships her brother—and she is passionately in love with Mr. Finley. She is friendly with Miss Mattie, but there is no real affection there."

"Nobody could be very fond of that old maid," Zizi said, in a tone of pity rather than reproach. "And it's her own fault—she's so prying and curious. Well, now, Miss Turner, here's another question. Do you think Mr. Finley could have committed that murder?"

"Yes, I do."

"I thought you were sure it was Mrs. Raynor who shot—"

"I've told you again and again I don't know which one it was! I've thought it over and over—I've pictured out the scene with both of them, and all I can say is—it was certainly one of them."

"What about a man from outside?"

DR. CHASE,

SUDDEN DEATH OF LEE CENTER MAN SHOCK TO FRIENDS

Isaac N. Wood Passed Away Unexpectedly Tuesday Evening.

Lee Center—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shaw and family spent the week end at Ransom, Ill., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wellman.

Mrs. Ida Tennant of Amboy was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Mary M. Richardson last week.

Henry Wellman visited his daughter, Mrs. Mark Smith at Esmond last week.

Superintendent and Mrs. Harry P. Hibish and daughter, Miss Helen, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Westlake at Sycamore, Sunday.

Mrs. Eleanor Bender, widow of the late Rev. Conrad Bender, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Nicholas in Milledgeville last Friday and was buried in Woodside cemetery here by the side of her husband on Monday.

Mrs. Freeman Smith of Plano spent several days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. DeClent.

After the business session at the Reichen lodge last Friday night a pleasing program was given and a fine supper was served in the banquet hall. Guests present were Mesdames Kennedy and Herliok from Dixon, C. R. Atkins of Aurora, and Mrs. Harold July of Amboy.

The Woodman basketball team cleared a neat sum of money at their recent dance.

Mrs. Paul Roberts is substituting in the Nachusa school for Miss Edyth Hill who was called home on account of the serious illness and death of her brother, Glen.

L. F. Lippincott who was seized with severe chest pain Monday night is much improved.

Mrs. Harry P. Hibish entertained the basketball team Tuesday evening with a three course dinner at 6:30, which was greatly enjoyed by the young guests. The table decorations were in the team's colors, red and white.

Harold Frost attended a banquet of the Northwestern Life Insurance Co. at the Nachusa Tavern in Dixon Monday night. Harold is representing the company in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Dishong returned Monday night from their visit with relatives in Cedar Rapids and Griswold, Iowa.

Miss Beatrice Westlake of the high school faculty suffered an injury Wednesday when a lead pencil was inadvertently thrust into the palm of her left hand, striking a nerve center. Medical attention was at once sought first aid being administered by Superintendent Harry P. Hibish.

This community was profoundly shocked and grieved by the sudden death Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock of Isaac N. Wood, a highly respected and esteemed citizen of this town for many years. Mr. Wood had been in accustomed health and working until Tuesday morning when he felt somewhat ill, complaining of a pain in his chest and arm and remained home. In the evening he remarked that he would lie down and asked his wife to bring him a little lunch. As Mrs. Wood was preparing it she heard him gasping and by the time she reached his bedside he was gone. His children were at once summoned, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood arriving from Chicago in the morning, and Mrs. George Thier from Sublette. Mrs. Elmer Corbin will arrive Friday from Washington, D. C.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE IS a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. Because S.S.S. is made from fresh herbs and barks, it may be taken with perfect safety. Try it yourself. You will not only look better, but you will feel better, too.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Think Woman Had Part in Great Mail Robbery
Chicago, Nov. 14.—Government agents have found evidence pointing to a woman as having had an important part in connection with the mail train robbery at Rondout, Ill., last June. It was reported today.

In his opening statement, Assistant District Attorney Byrne depicted William J. Fahy, former postoffice inspector, as adviser and plotter to and with the train robbers—six of whom have pleaded guilty—but he failed to elaborate on his charges. He gave no details of any acquaintance of Fahy with the actual robbers but he did charge that Fahy had plotted other robberies.

It is said that Fahy, while working on a robbery case came in contact with an attractive woman and government agents have indicated that this had a bearing on the Rondout affair.

Some indications yesterday that the loot, generally estimated at about $2,000,000 was beyond that figure, were minimized when C. A. Freeberg, shipping teller for the federal reserve bank of Chicago today corrected his testimony. He said yesterday that he had prepared for shipment on the train which was held up ten thousand $100 bills and five thousand $50 bills but today said he had been in error and that the correct amounts were $5,000 in fifty dollar bills and $10,000 in one hundred dollar bills.

Exactly the same presentation as given this magnificent production at the Liberty Theatre, New York, for 7 months. A wonderful SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA playing the specially written score—the Mohammedan Chanter—the same special scenery—the same Arabian to serve Bagdad Coffee during intermission—and the same lobby entertainer and scenery. This is the only picture in 9 years that has really created a sensation and the whole country acclaims it as a production a generation ahead of anything yet attempted. You are assured that this is your only chance to see it in this vicinity this entire season as it is being shown only by specially equipped traveling companies that play the biggest theatres.
